Introduction

This manual was created upon the advice of the Pennsylvania Mine Families First Response and Communications Advisory Council to ensure that mine operators have the resources necessary for contacting the appropriate agencies for the sole needs of the miners' family affected in an underground mine emergency and review the attached Red Cross shelter checklist which may provide the mine operator with areas they might not have considered.

This plan assigns responsibilities to the mine owners and operators in addition to outlining the Commonwealth's response in a mine emergency involving miners who are trapped, injured, or awaiting rescue. It is the basic document for organizations in the Commonwealth given responsibilities under this plan to develop supporting plans and establish procedures.

Purpose

For the purpose of this plan, a mine emergency is defined as an event in which a miner or miners are trapped, injured or awaiting rescue.

Policy Statement

It is the policy of the Commonwealth to treat the families of miners who are trapped, injured or awaiting rescue during a mine emergency with the dignity and respect they deserve and to make sure families are provided updated information on rescue efforts before the public or the media and that their needs and questions are attended to during the mine emergency. It is the policy of the Commonwealth to recognize that all disasters start at the local level and initial response starts there as well. It is the belief of the Mine Families First Response and Communications Advisory Council that local support systems should be utilized to support mine families, escalating to the state and then federal resources, only as necessary.

Training

Training sessions shall be scheduled on a regular basis, at least annually, to ensure that all participants fully understand their role in mine emergencies as it relates to the mine families.
