

This is a partial list of aboveground storage tank leak test vendors. It is presented only to assist tank owners in locating a suitable provider for leak testing of large aboveground storage tank systems. Leak tests are required at In-Service Inspections for large aboveground tanks that do not have secondary containment, cathodic protection, or an internal lining. Leak tests must follow a nationally recognized procedure that is based on a volumetric/mass measurement, an acoustic measurement, or a soil-vapor monitoring method, as described in API Publication 334 "Guide to Leak Detection in Aboveground Storage Tanks" (Note: Inventory control is intentionally excluded from the list of allowable leak test methods in Chapter 245). The Department does not evaluate, nor does it certify leak test methods or leak test vendors. Placement on this list does not constitute an endorsement or recommendation of any of the vendors listed. This list may not be cited for purposes of advertisement.
