

SRBC Update

Cumulative Water Use & Availability Study

November 4, 2013

FROM: Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC)

WHAT: By-Invitation Update on SRBC's Cumulative Water Use and Availability Study (see below for details)

WHEN: Monday, November 4, 2013, 1:00 - 3:00 p.m.

WHERE: SRBC Office (or via WebEx)

4423 North Front Street

Harrisburg, PA 17110-1788

Directions: <http://www.srbc.net/about/directions.htm>

WHO: Jim Richenderfer, Deputy Executive Director & Director of Technical Programs, SRBC

John Balay, Manager, Planning & Operations, SRBC

SRBC launched a multi-year study – the Cumulative Water Use and Availability Study – in early 2013 to evaluate the potential cumulative impact of consumptive water uses on the basin's water resources. The study will cover the entire Susquehanna basin and all types of consumptive water uses. Background information on the study is available on SRBC's web site at www.srbc.net/planning/cwuas.htm.

Given significant interest in this study by various stakeholders throughout the basin, SRBC is hosting another by-invitation briefing on November 4 to provide an update on study progress and to answer questions. You are cordially invited to participate on site in Harrisburg or through WebEx. We hope you can join us.

RSVP: By Monday, October 28, to John Balay, SRBC
Email: jbalay@srbc.net or Phone: (717) 238-0423.

Please indicate if you will be participating in person in Harrisburg or via WebEx. If you choose to participate via WebEx, SRBC will email you details and instructions prior to the meeting.