

Helpful Tips for Heating Oil Distributors

- Check and confirm the address of the house/tank to which you are delivering heating oil.
- When fueling a heating oil tank, always remember to remain with the tank while fueling, and listen for the whistle from the vent. If the vent is not whistling, or whistling seems faint, STOP immediately!

What to do if there is a release during delivery

- ★ Notify the DEP and the municipality immediately!
- For minor releases of heating oil, use absorbent materials commonly found in commercially available spill kits to soak up the released oil.
- Absorbents should be disposed of as soon as they become saturated. Double-bag saturated materials, and seal the bags before properly disposing of them. Contact the local trash hauler for questions about proper disposal of heating oil saturated materials.
- If soil is impacted, the contaminated soil should be removed and disposed of. Sampling should be performed to verify all contaminated soil has been removed
- Prevent heating oil from entering any drains, sewers, manways or waterways. Note and report any discharges for follow-up action.
